

Invitation rights

Users may be assigned rights to create invitations in your agenda.

The Scheduling tab

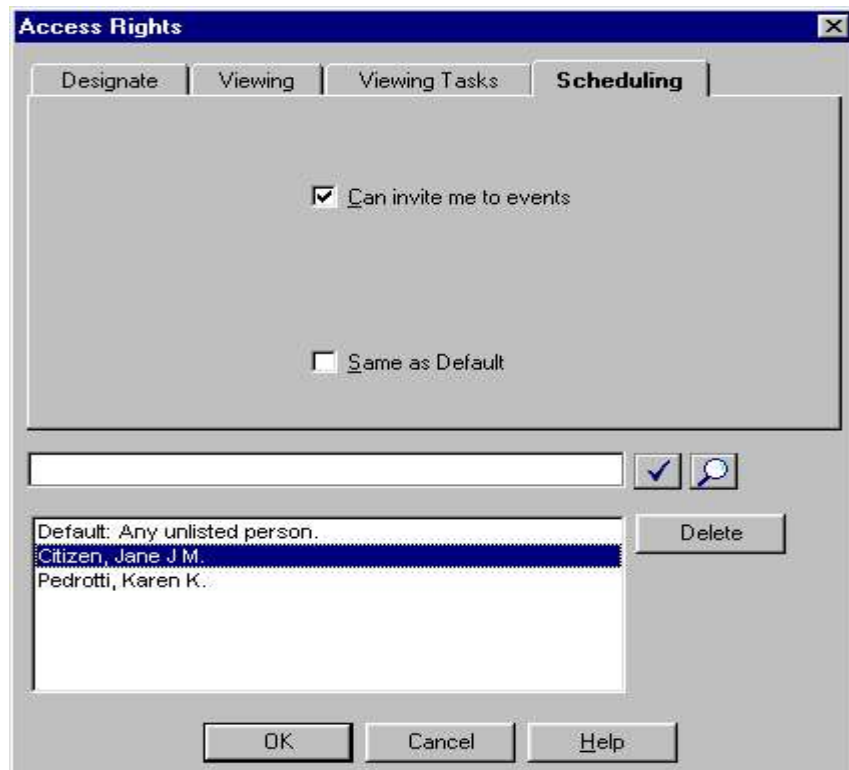

Selecting viewing tasks in the Access Rights window displays the Scheduling tab.

Depending on the user selected the scheduling window will have different displays. If you select Default user the following window will be display

The default setting allows anyone to invite you to events.

However if you select an individual user from the selection list the following window will be display.

It is possible to control the invitation rights for individual users. For an individual user you can

- Allow them to invite you to events by selecting “Can invite me to events” item
- Disallow a user by de-selecting the “Can invite me to events” item
- set the user to have the same as default
